MY DRIVING TEST / REVISION SERIES

Your Final 7 Days Before the Driving Test

A calm, evidence-led plan for practice, revision, vehicle checks and test-day recovery.

7
DAYS

Run a baseline mock drive

Ask your ADI for a realistic mock or pre-test. Record repeated patterns under observation, position, progress, reaction, controls and manoeuvres. Choose only the two weakest areas for the rest of the week.

6

Make observation repeatable

Use a short drive to rehearse mirrors, blind spots and all-round observation when moving off, changing position and completing manoeuvres. Follow your ADI's sequence and make every check purposeful.

5

Practise the local road mix

Drive independent practice patterns near your booked centre. Look for roundabouts, residential turns, speed changes, parked cars and busy junctions. First navigate; then repeat with observation and progress as the goal.

4

Rehearse manoeuvres and recovery

Practise the reverse around a corner, turnabout, hill start and pulling in safely. If you stall or need to correct, secure the car, observe again and continue safely instead of assuming the test is over.

Finish calm, not exhausted.

Use the final days to prove consistency and remove avoidable test-day problems.

3

Knowledge plus vehicle check

Say verbal answers aloud; review road signs, hand signals and under-bonnet checks. Test lights, tyres, wipers, washer, horn and warning lights. Confirm permit, tax, NCT if applicable, L-plates and insurance documents.

2

Take the final readiness decision

Complete one final mock or focused lesson. Ask: are the same serious patterns still repeating? If not, stop adding new techniques. Keep only a short list of two reminders for test day.

1

DAY

Reduce the load

Take a short familiar drive if it helps you settle, then stop. Prepare the route to the centre, documents, keys, glasses if required and clothing. Avoid a late-night revision marathon and protect your sleep.

Test-day reset

Arrive early. If arranged, use a short warm-up with your ADI without tiring yourself. Drive one junction at a time. If you make a mistake, keep making the next safe decision - a correction or stall does not automatically mean the test is over.
